ITINERARY

DAY 1 ARRIVE IN WHITEHORSE [-/-/D]

Your Arctic adventure begins as you land in the historic city of Whitehorse, gateway to the Yukon wilderness. After meeting your local host at the airport, settle into your downtown hotel and take the afternoon to adjust to the crisp northern air. Stroll the compact waterfront district, step inside the SS Klondike National Historic Site to glimpse Gold-Rush lore, or warm up with a Yukon-roasted coffee in a cozy café. Later in the evening, you transfer to a secluded viewing cabin well outside the city's light halo. Wrapped in thermal gear and armed with a tripod-ready camera, you watch for the ethereal ribbons of the Aurora Borealis dancing across the vast sub-Arctic sky before returning to the hotel for a restful night.

DAY 2 YUKON WILDLIFE & EVENING AURORA WATCH [B/-/-]

After breakfast, set out along the Alaska Highway toward the Yukon Wildlife Preserve. Heated coaches move slowly past open tundra enclosures where moose, caribou, mountain goats, and muskoxen thrive in near-natural surroundings—perfect for relaxed photography and interpretation by your guide. Return to Whitehorse for a free afternoon; many guests choose to browse First Nations art galleries or walk the Millennium Trail beside the frozen Yukon River. Tonight, journey once again into the silent boreal forest for another chance to witness the Northern Lights, whose colours and intensity change nightly. Hot drinks and fresh maple cookies keep spirits high until you head back to the hotel after midnight.

Fuel up at breakfast, then drive a short distance to a rustic winter lodge on the banks of the frozen Takhini River. Here you spend an unhurried day immersed in classic Yukon winter life: learn how to harness and steer a small team of friendly sled dogs, glide along groomed trails on traditional wooden snowshoes, or simply relax by the wood-burning stove while the staff prepares a hot lunch featuring local game chili and bannock. Return to Whitehorse in the mid-afternoon with time to pack or shop for jade and gold-nugget keepsakes. Your final night brings one last Aurora viewing session, offering a farewell panorama of greens, pinks, and occasional crimson waves shimmering overhead.
